I really don't have any comments. The class was a challenge for me but that was not because the class itself was unnecessarily difficult. If I could change anything I would have made the class be at 10 AM.

Thank you for your participation!

One of the nicest + ~~help~~ most helpful professor I've had. I struggled but never felt discouraged. Always available for help + never made students feel stupid.

My only suggestion would be to have more specific (quizzes) ways of making sure everyone comprehends the material more often.

Thank you ☺

I liked the class. Some of the journals were difficult to write on simply because we only spent one in class day on them. Overall I would recommend the course. The videos were interesting, especially genre.

1. The class was well organized and the goals of the class were clear. Dr Pugh cares about her students and is aware of how they are doing - she listens to students when they have concerns or problems, like group work, and finds a solution to those problems!

2. I would have liked to have seen less movies because they took up so much class time and the PND survey felt pointless.

3. She cares so much and I think people should know that!

① Professor Pugh is very knowledgeable in the subject matter that I learned in this course. She was able to explain certain things that I did not understand right away & was able to try & understand my thought process before giving me a 'generic' response. It is very apparent that she is 'passionate' about teaching & how important it is to her. I am very thankful that I got to have such an amazing, knowledgeable instructor during my last quarter at WWU!

② Workload was fair & helped w/ learning & understanding the material outside of class time.

1. Assignments and class work/group work requirements were extremely clear, as well as the canvas page. I had no trouble understanding what was expected of me. Pugh's responses to my assignments on Canvas were also very helpful.

2. Some days - we did go extremely fast through slides (but she always knew when we were lost or confused and would then slow down).

3. I would recommend this class to other students - and I hope that I have a future class with her.

Meredith had a lot of passion, enthusiasm, and energy in this class. She used very diverse examples and I think she succeeded in making the class more aware of the world around them (what more could you want!).

The only critique I have is that sometimes it felt like she would pinpoint a certain person during a lesson which was kind of awkward. As in, there would be a lesson and she would make direct, extended eye contact with a person and ask them questions directly. This would be helpful if I didn't understand a topic and wanted more direct instruction, but if I understood a topic it was awkward placating her with nods - I felt like I had to prove that I understood the topic!

This is a small critique but it made some lectures a little awkward. I still loved the class!

1. Extremely good combination of lecture, example, and film. Exceptional at answering questions

I think I learned the most with this class because the midterm was take-home and the final was an online project/presentation. These kind of "exams" or ways of testing seriously allow for more continuous participation and understanding in the learning topics (rather than cramming/studying material to merely memorize for a single multiple choice exam)! Without test anxiety, I was able to take away a lot from this class and I find myself wanting to apply it in everyday life situations.

2. Sometimes the presentation (in class) was a little quick, so it was a challenge to get all the notes I needed now and again.

3. I really enjoyed this class. Initially, I wasn't sure about a linguistics minor, but this course/class confirmed it is something I want to pursue. It was worth waking up at 6am! :D

The final is needisly complex. This instructor attempts to create "community" or some nonsense through group works, but it falls flat. The group work projects in the first half focused in a 1-sided comprehension of important topics that came back to bite on the midterm. the group works were slightly better in the second half, because all the groups worked on the same projects. The groups were also mixed up to make sure we didn't get too comfortable with the other students.
